

David Fanfani is Associate Professor at the Architecture Department of Florence University as well as Lecturer in Urban and Regional Planning at the Master Science Course in Urban and Regional Planning and Design of the Architecture School. His main research and teaching fields mainly refer and relate to the study and enhancement of periurban areas' role. That particularly for the recovery of an integrative approach to local development and settlements sustainable planning and design, according to a bioregional/territorialist perspective. About these topics he authored manifold essays and publications, also at international level whereas he lately edited with A. Matarán, for Springer Publisher, the two volumes book Bioregional Planning and Design. (2020). He is also appointed since 2019 as Chief editor of the Planning Journal Contesti. Città, Territori, Progetti.

(Firenze University Press Publisher, <https://oajournals.fupress.net/index.php/contesti>)